Contact information of the Data Protection Officer

Please contact in all data protection related matters: tietosuoja@turkuamk.fi

The messages sent to this address are processed by the Data Protection Officer (DPO) and a data protection specialist working with them and as their substitute.

Purpose of processing the personal data

We will only process your personal data for questions regarding your background information. Responses will not be linked to a specific person at any stage and the survey will be anonymous in all other respects. In the survey, we examine the performance and quality of the project's events. The information collected will be used to develop the activities and evaluate the project. The legal basis for the processing of personal data is the consent of the data subject.

Legitimate interests of the data controller or third party

The interest of the controller is justified on the basis of the statistical purpose. Respondents will be reached via a survey link.

Processed categories and storage times of personal data

Those whose data will be processed are the respondents to the internet survey and have agreed that their views on the events organised by the project will be taken into account in the project activities.

The material containing personal data will be destroyed at the end of the processing, at the latest by the end of 2027.

Receivers or receiver groups of personal data

The personal data is received by the people working on the project at Turku University of Applied Sciences and other project partner organisations. Data will not be regularly disclosed to parties outside the project.

Essential information regarding transfer of data to third countries (outside the EU or EEA countries)

The data is not transferred to third countries.

Principles of data protection

The data is accessed only by people whose tasks require access to the data. Access to the service is limited with user IDs and user rights.

The data is stored in protected format in the servers of Turku University of Applied Sciences.

Data subjects' rights

According to the General Data Protection Regulation, the data subject has the right:

- to receive information on the processing of their personal data, unless otherwise regulated by the law
 - to request for access to their personal data and rectification regarding incorrect or insufficient information

- to erase their data (not applied, if the basis for processing is compliance with a legal obligation or performance of a task carried out in the public interest)
- to restrict the processing of their data
- to object to the processing of their data, if the basis for processing is general or legitimate interest
- to request the transfer of data they have submitted themselves from one controller to another, if the basis for processing is consent or agreement
- withdraw the consent they have given
- notification obligation of the controller on the rectification/erasure/restricting of processing of personal data
- not to be subject to automated decision-making (the data subject may allow automated decision-making by their consent)

Data subjects may exercise their rights by contacting the contact person mentioned in the privacy notice or the Data Protection Officer. More information on data subjects' rights is provided by the contact person and/or Data Protection Officer.

If processing the data does not require identifying the data subject without additional information or the controller cannot recognize the data subject, the right to inspection, rectification, data erasure, restriction of processing, obligation to report and transmittal is not applied.

You have the right to file a complaint with the Data Protection Ombudsman's office, if you consider that valid data protection legislation has been breached in processing your personal data. The contact details of the DPO can be found in the beginning of the privacy notice. All requests are processed on a case-by-case basis.
